Statutory Authority:

Requesting Agency's Authority
-------------------------------	--

*If the requesting agency doesn't have a specific statutory authority, it may use the National Science Foundation Act of 1950, as amended (42 USC 1861-76). Please note: The Economy Act is a law of general applicability that should only be used if there is no statutory authority more specific than the Economy Act. The NSF Act of 1950 is a more specific statute than the Economy Act, so if there is no other specific statute available to the requesting agency, it should use the NSF Act of 1950, as amended (42 USC 1861-76).

Servicing Agency's Authority	The National Science Foundation must accept funds using the National Science Foundation Act of 1950, as amended (42 USC 1861-76).
